

Our mission

Symbionature is an environment-friendly agricultural company based in Quebec. We propose new, simple, and proven solutions for excellent management of slurry and manure, breeding and farming. Our systems respect the environment and maintain ecological balance in all aspects of life. Reduced odours and pathogenic bacteria are among the chief results obtained through the use of our products.

Symbionature's mission is to supply farmers with counselling and tools to farm in harmony with their environment, their neighbours, their community and...their banker! When agriculture is both healthy and profitable, the love of farming lasts. By restoring the symbiosis between man and nature in a mutually beneficial relationship, farmers enjoy optimal results for their labour and are proud to be guardians of our planet's rural wealth.

Symbionature offers counselling and technical services, and innovative products to all those concerned about preserving nature's balance and ensuring that their business is efficient and profitable.